

History Today - a resource for the Research Study

History Today is a very good source for topics suitable for the Research Study - historically significant, narrow in focus, from any time and place, unique to the student. Included below are a sample of topics for 5 years of the magazine from 2001 to 2005.

The magazine is available each month from book shops. Both History Today and History Ireland are two sources which should be bought by History Departments in every school. They can also be ordered on subscription online.

Past articles from History Today can be bought online at www.historytoday.com. This also has an index to articles for all issues from 1980 to the present. A short extract from the beginning of the article can be read to gauge its relevance and suitability. You can browse the archives by author, by issue or by topic. There is also a separate archive for History Review with articles from 1995 to the present.

‘Both History Today and History Ireland are two sources which should be bought by History Departments in every school.’
